Enterprise Reasoning Contribution Agreement

Between Nirvaha Inc., a Washington State Corporation, doing business as LangGrant ("LangGrant") and Contributor.

1. Purpose and Contributions
This Agreement governs materials voluntarily submitted by Contributor for development of specifications, information models, documentation, and related standards ("Contributions"). Participation does not require Contributor to submit any Contributions.

2. Copyright
Contributor retains ownership of its Contributions. Contributor grants LangGrant a perpetual, worldwide, non-exclusive, irrevocable, royalty-free license to use, reproduce, modify, distribute, publish, sublicense, and create derivative works from Contributions, including for commercial purposes and publication as open standards.

3. Patent Rights
Contributor grants LangGrant and recipients or implementers of specifications incorporating its Contributions a perpetual, worldwide, non-exclusive, royalty-free patent license to make, use, sell, distribute, and implement those Contributions.
This license applies only to patent claims owned or controlled by Contributor that would necessarily be infringed by implementing the Contributions as incorporated into the applicable specification. It does not extend to unrelated patents, independently developed technology, or other portions of the specification.

4. Contributor Assurances
Contributor confirms that it has authority to submit its Contributions and grant these rights, and will identify any known third-party restrictions affecting them. Contributions are otherwise provided "as is," without warranty.

5. Existing Intellectual Property
Neither party transfers ownership of pre-existing intellectual property. No rights are granted beyond those expressly stated in this Agreement.

6. General Terms
LangGrant may accept, modify, or decline Contributions at its discretion. Contributor grants no rights to its trademarks. This Agreement does not establish employment, partnership, or financial obligations. The licenses granted for accepted Contributions survive termination of participation.